

Family recovery sheet

Where to look and who to call. Never the keys.

Fast Acts for Sats

Never write recovery words, a PIN, a passphrase, or a password on this sheet.

This sheet helps the people I trust find and recover my bitcoin if I cannot. Keep it on paper, somewhere safe, apart from the backup.

CALL FIRST

First: name and phone

If not reached: name and phone

My will is with (lawyer or person, and phone)

WHAT EXISTS (NO AMOUNTS, NO ADDRESSES)

Exchange accounts (company names)

Phone wallet (app, and which phone)

Hardware wallet (maker and model)

The maker's official website (from the box or the device)

WHERE TO LOOK

The device is kept

The backup is kept, or who knows where

A passphrase is in use: ☐ yes ☐ no Held by, or kept at (never write it here)

WHAT TO DO, IN ORDER

- 1 Take your time. Bitcoin in a wallet does not expire.
- 2 Call the first person named above before you touch a device.
- 3 For an exchange account, write to the company's support. Expect it to ask for a death certificate and proof that you act for the estate.
- 4 For a wallet, follow the maker's official recovery guide on the maker's own website, with the person named above beside you.
- 5 After a recovery, send a small test amount before you move the rest.

NEVER

- Never type recovery words into a website, an app, an email, or a message.
- Never give them to anyone who calls, writes, or offers to help. No support desk needs them.
- Never search for the maker's website. Type the address written above.
- Never guess at a PIN. Some devices erase themselves after too many wrong tries.

Filled in on _____ Review by _____

This sheet is not a will and not legal advice. Ask an estate lawyer who inherits and who may act for you.

The guide: fastactsforsats.com/secure/family-recovery-plan/

Educational information, not personal financial, legal, or tax advice.